Investment fund reviews powered by data

A PURPOSE-LED PROFESSIONAL SERVICES
BUSINESS WITH LAW AT THE CORE

DATALIS

Datalis is a technology solution used by our lawyers for fund reviews.

It captures hundreds of data points to identify items that are not market standard and allows us to prepare consistent reporting templates.

By extracting and analysing the data, we can build up a guide of your house position across a range of terms to inform decision-making and negotiations.

Datalis has been developed over several years by our global investment funds team, drawing on their extensive experience from hundreds of fund reviews.

Datalis can help you manage your legal risk, improve decision-making and ensure consistency across your fund investing processes.

How does it work?

Our lawyers respond to questions on the fund documentation set by Datalis that are tailored and populated based on answers to previous questions.

Datalis assists us in preparing a tailored note of advice on the key risks of the fund terms.

Each response is also captured as a data point that is stored and can be used to build a guide of your risk profile and your house position on a range of terms, which can then be benchmarked against broader market practice.

BENEFITS

Enables you to leverage off our market standard database to improve your negotiating position.

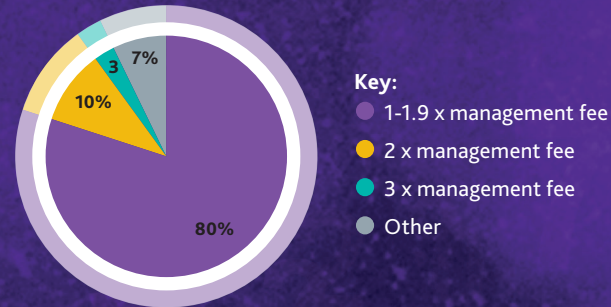

Facilitates more effective counterparty negotiations, backed by quantifiable market data.

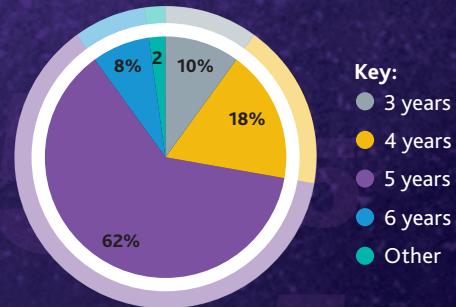

Enables clients to manage their legal risk, improve decision-making and ensure consistency across all your fund investments.

Example data sets

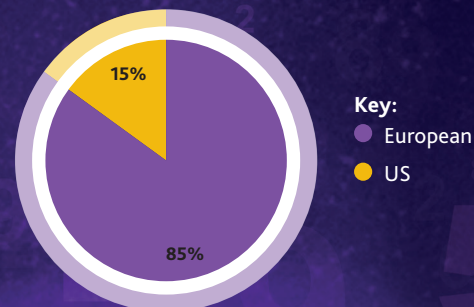

What is the no-fault compensation payment?

What is the investment period?

What is the basis of the waterfall?
